

Prof. Dr. Norbert Langer

Argelander-Institut für Astronomie, Universität Bonn & Sterrekundig Instituut, Universiteit Utrecht

The progenitors of gamma-ray bursts

The cosmic gamma-ray bursts are now understood to be connected with the deaths of massive stars. However, gamma-ray bursts are much rarer than supernovae. We will review observational and theoretical arguments constraining the conditions required to turn a massive star into a gamma-ray bursts progenitor.